(Caucus, Midterms)

DURATION:
6 x half hours

Where politics and pandemonium meet – an intimate view on the most extraordinary presidential races of all times.

Acclaimed filmmaker and director AJ Schnack (Caucus, Midterms) uncovers the turning points of an unprecedented US Presidential primary race, pulling back the curtain to reveal the intricate steps to the main stage, in this six-part series from First Look Media.

On-the-ground coverage features footage of candidates and supporters alongside in-depth interviews with campaign staffers, party advisors and political journalists, as candidates campaign across the country, struggling against scandals, mudslinging and party infighting. In a year of political outsiders and deep divides in both parties, this is the ultimate inside perspective of a Presidential campaign that will go down in history.

A First Look Media Production.
